Curriculum & Instructional Leaders Academy

The ACSA Curriculum and Instructional Leaders Academy introduces participants to a variety of strategies for developing effective instructional practices based on current theories on student learning and assessment. The academy has been designed to the standards for CCTC's Professional Clear Administrative Services Credential non-university programs. Presentations and discussion sessions are conducted by an experienced faculty of current practitioners. This academy enables new or aspiring instructional leaders to experience and then develop some of the fundamental skills needed to address standard-based reforms, including assessment, curriculum, monitoring and evaluation of instructional programs for their schools and school districts. Academy sessions are particularly useful for educators managing changes that lead to the implementation of standards, assessment and accountability, including: superintendents, assistant superintendents for instruction, site administrators, project directors, curriculum directors, intervention specialists, district and county office administrators and school board members.

This academy format differs from the traditional academy. The registrant receives 80 hours of instruction over eight weekend sessions. The session hours are Friday evenings, 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m., and Saturdays, 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.* The extensive course syllabus and materials each participant receives are an exceptional resource for ongoing reference.

*Please note that Saturday hours for this academy may vary.
